

RDGC Scholarship Application Form

Rye Driftwood Garden Club has established scholarships in areas related to horticulture, conservation, and environmental education. Scholarships are awarded to Seacoast organizations that aid advancement in these fields of study. They are available for non-profits, local government and civic organizations. Past scholarships have helped fund study in subjects such as horticulture technology and genetics, horticulture therapy, as well as biodiversity and plant education for youth. RDGC scholarships are awarded at our March, 2024 meeting.

Required Description

Please describe how you will use this scholarship to advance study in horticulture/conservation/environmental education. Consider explaining:

1. What is the current program and how does it advance study in the specific areas RDGC scholarships are designed to address?
2. How specifically would the money be used? For example, student tuition or project enhancement.
3. What do you see as the outcome of receiving the scholarship? (For example, how will the program be changed/improved or how will a student be positively impacted by receiving a scholarship?)
